Students' Weather Presentation

Kelly Bates, meteorologist for WJAR NBC 10 Weekend Sunrise, conducted a presentation on weather to Sacred Heart School students yesterday, Tuesday, October 16.

Students in grades Kindergarten through eight were treated to an engaging presentation on weather facts, history-making Rhode Island storms, and stories about cloud types, blizzards, and hurricanes.

Invited to the school by Mrs. Elaine Mountain, the second grade teacher, Bates piqued the children's curiosity, and she enthusiastically answered dozens of questions posed to her by the inquisitive audience members during the hour-long presentation.

Bates used computer photos of an array of major types of storms to augment her talk. Students were riveted to their seats during the free-wheeling assembly.

"Talking with students about weather is one of my favorite things to do", Bates said. She indicated that her schedule is packed with school appearances.

"In addition to meeting a local television celebrity, students received a unique lesson on various facets of weather by an expert meteorologist. Quite exciting!" observed Mrs. Mountain.

Student Council for Recycling

The Sacred Heart School is thinking GREEN!

The middle school students are investigating the possibility of introducing re-cycling at the school which currently does not engage in the environmentally sound practice.

"Council members are dedicated to cleaning the planet," adviser Jenna Roche proclaimed.

Stay tuned!
